Patrician collection

The Patrician Collection employs the classic shape of a Triumphal Arch.

In ancient Rome, the Arch of Triumph celebrated the emperor as commander and political authority. Throughout the empire – from Gaul to Germany, Spain to North Africa, and Greece to Asia Minor – the construction of these imposing arches not only represented military honor, but promoted technical and artistic craftsmanship.

Technical and artistic craftsmanship is also used to produce each of MAI's 36 design options of full radius top mahogany doors, complete with insulated glass surrounds.

Few companies have mastered this technique, and no one offers the same hand-tailored design options found in MAI's Patrician Collection.

Arches of Triumph were more than just entryways. They held monumental and commemorative character. Your home's entryway isn't just a door. Your home is your domain. Now your home's entry can carry more than functional value. Your guests can be welcomed to your home in noble style.
